We want to make it easier for you to find the information you need.

We want to make it easier for you to find the information you need.

More and more people in New Zealand are now renting. We want to make sure all tenants and landlords in New Zealand understand their rights and responsibilities under the Residential Tenancies Act.

To do this, we are reviewing the information on our website to make sure it's easy to find and understand for anyone who visits.

We need your help to test the current website structure, so we can see where there might be problems.
